SPECIAL AUDITOR'S REPORT

This is to certify that on the 18th and 22nd days of March, 1938, I examined and audited the books of the Treasurer of the Orford School District, Harold W. Swan, Treasurer, and found them correct as checked with the books of the School Board of the District of Orford, N. H., to March 1938.

I also checked the Treasurer's books with the Hanover Bank statements and found they checked correctly, but there seems to be a deficiency of $15.62 as of August 1, 1930.

MAURICE H. RANDALL, Notary Public.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board and Citizens of the School District of Orford:

One of the long series of reports of school boards to the School District of Orford is herewith submitted. The first report of the present Superintendent of Schools is made a part of this report.

Purpose. Annual reports of school officials are prepared in accordance with the laws of the State and the regulation of the State Board of Education. They serve to place before the citizens some of the current happenings in the schools and provide for a somewhat continuous historical record of school events. They usually contain accounts of the financial transactions of the district, statistics concerning school attendance, school personnel, and such comments as are pertinent to the local situation. This report has been prepared in keeping with these points of view. Some of the recent changes have also been considered. Finally, certain suggestions have been made which may be of benefit to the further operation of the schools.

Repairs. Every citizen should realize that, as buildings grow older, it becomes necessary for constant repairs to be made in order to keep the buildings reasonably habitable. The Board acted wisely in caring for some of the necessary repairs during the long summer vacation. The hurricane of September made it necessary to replace a part of the slate on the Orford Village building because a considerable quantity was stripped off by the wind. The roof of the gable at the Orford school has been shingled so that the leaks have been stopped. It will not be long before the rest of the roof of that building will need to be reshingled, as stated in the report of last year.

Improvements have been made in the toilets at Orfordville and additional electric lights installed in dark areas. The toilet fixtures in this building were repaired and may serve for a limited period of time without replacement. Lighting is a very important feature of buildings for school use. A study of the electric lights in the Orfordville building indicates that these lights are not distributed nor diffused in such a way as to give maximum results to the pupils at their desks. It is highly desirable that some changes be made in these lights so that there will be a greater amount of illumination and thus avoid some of the eye strain for the pupils.

The splendid work which was done in connection with the addition and remodeling of the Orford Street building left some features that were not entirely completed. It is found that there is no office or special room provided for the Headmaster, nor does the Headmaster have for her own special use any particular desk area. The original plans for the remodeling of that building provided an area at the front of the building which could be set apart for just such a purpose. Arrangements should be made just as soon as it is financially possible to have this condition corrected. There is also need in this building for considerable addition to the pupil seating arrangements. This will involve some expenditure, but if the school is to continue to function with a minimum of confusion and with a maximum of benefit to the pupils, some positive measures must be taken to correct this deficiency.

The property which was acquired at the rear of the Orford Street building needs to be set off by some type of fence. The Board is acting wisely in planning to provide a fence around this area to mark the extent of the school grounds so that there will be as little crossing into other people's property as is possible, and so that there will be no future misunderstanding as to just how much area is available for play or agricultural demonstration purposes.

High School. The High School continues to operate under the contract between the State Board of Education and the School Board of Orford, in accordance with the plan set up at the time that the addition to this building was made. It should be borne in mind that it will not always be possible to maintain an attendance and membership above 70 pupils. The number of pupils who come up through the grades vary with the years and with the type of population in any given community. This is also true of the adjoining towns of Fairlee and Lyme. Again, the number of pupils will depend somewhat upon the ease with which pupils from outlying areas and these other communities can reach the school. Since it is the law of this state that no community is obliged to provide transportation for high school pupils, the parents, or the pupils themselves, are obliged to assume this responsibility. This very fact tends to lessen somewhat the number of pupils who may be expected to enter the Orford High School. It is also true that some parents prefer to send their pupils to high schools other than the Orford school, even though it may cost them more, or because it is more convenient from this standpoint of transportation. These facts are stated so that the Board and citizens may not be too greatly disappointed should the number of pupils be less than has been anticipated. To offset this situation it may be said that it now seems probable that the number of pupils finishing the eighth grade in the Orford schools this year will be larger than the number last year. It is probably also true that more pupils will be completing the eighth grade in our neighboring communities, so that it may be reasonably expected that the enrollment next year will be equal to, and possibly somewhat larger than, the present enrollment.

The work of the school is organized around four major curricula—the domestic arts, the agricultural, the commercial, and the academic. Such a complete program of opportunity could not be available to a town of this size were it not for the fact that the school is being used for the purpose of training beginning teachers. Orford, then, should not only appreciate its advantages, but may well congratulate itself upon having so complete a program of education available for her boys and girls.

Headmaster's Report. The Headmaster's Report has been incorporated in, and made a part of, this report. She has submitted her 12th annual report of the High School. This report shows that on the opening of school in September there was an enrollment of 72 pupils—18 Seniors, 11 Juniors, 27 Sophomores, 15 Freshmen, and 1 Special. Since that time, 7 additional pupils have entered, and 6 have moved away, so that the present enrollment is 73.

The pupils in the High School have been organized into what may later become a full-fledged Student Council. This means that they have been organized into groups to assist in the care of the building and in the general operation of the school. The boys, under the direction of Mr. Traver, have done an excellent piece of work in landscaping. This has provided somewhat better play areas at the rear of the building, and a more pleasing approach to the front of the building. These plans for improving the school grounds and for the elimination of the automobile hazards for the pupils have resulted in some lack of a good parking area for those who drive to school with their cars. This condition can be remedied as soon as a parking area at the foot of the hill, approaching the building, has been fully provided. It is understood that the owner of this property is willing to allow it to be used for school purposes. If this be so, it would be advantageous, in the long run, to have such an arrangement reduced to writing so that there would be no misunderstanding, even in possible changes of ownership.

The boys in the agricultural courses raised 500 chickens last Spring. On a recent visit to the school, I found that they had 500 more nearly ready for shipment. The small greenhouse which was built last year as a part of the landscaping project was paid for through tomato plants raised by the boys in this greenhouse. It is probable that such projects as these will enable the boys to assist much in providing some of the additional facilities for the work in the school.

Another project which was carried on under the auspices of the High School was that of the Orford School Fair held in Fairlee Town Hall. Exhibits were had of work in the grades and in the high school. In this way it was possible for the people of the community to acquaint themselves with the work which is being done in the public schools of Orford.

Citizens sometimes feel that costs of education are too great, but when such exhibits as these bring to their attention the actual work which is being done in the schools, it becomes more and more apparent to them that, after all, there is a definite need for supporting a strong program of educational opportunity in any community. The better practices in high schools of the present time are to have the boys and girls participate more and more in such cooperative enterprises as are described above. This, in a measure, enables them to fit better into their respective communities when they become adults. It is also of added advantage to them when they go on to higher educational institutions. It may be of interest to know that of the 21 who graduated last June, 3 are attending Normal School, 1 New Hampshire University, 1 in a business college, 1 an agricultural school, and 2 others are beginning hospital training in February this year.

Teachers. The educational work of the schools of Orford, from the first grade through the twelfth, is being carried on in a generally commendable manner. It is apparent that the teachers are giving their best efforts toward improving the instruction and toward assisting the pupils in accomplishing the work laid out for the grades. It is sometimes difficult for the smaller communities to have available, at all times, teachers with qualifications similar to those which we now have. This is due in part to the fact that the state requirements for teachers have now been raised so that it is no longer possible to secure teachers with two years' training, unless they have had some experience. This will mean, in time, that nearly all of the communities of the state will be obliged to recognize this additional training in some definite financial way. Orford has done well in this regard in the past. It is only by a forward-looking program that an adequate and efficient staff can be maintained in any community.

Outlook. The conscientious endeavor and enthusiasm of my predecessor, together with the helpfulness of the School Board of Orford, and the cooperation of the citizens, have all contributed toward a general improvement of the school situation in the community. This very condition of progress may lead us into such a state of satisfaction that continuous progress may not be made. The very cooperation which has been evidenced since my contact with the schools must be continued for best results. School Board, teachers, parents, and citizens need ever be ready to take the next steps toward improving the conditions under which the boys and girls get their fundamental start in life. The very great interest which is manifested in the schools must be continued and, at the same time, it places upon us who have the immediate responsibility an obligation which none of us will fail to recognize. May the watchword be—A better and better educational opportunity for the boys and girls of Orford.

Respectfully submitted.

ROBERT J. FULLER,
Superintendent of Schools.
